THURSDAY TO SEE STURDY CONTEST

Mackmen and Naplanders, Fighting for the Lead in the Pennant Race, Meet at Shibe Park, and Reputations Will Surely Fall-Birmy's Team Is Going Well.

Thursday comes the big battle. The fast-flying Cleveland Naplanders oper s four-game series with the Mackmer at Shibe Park on that day. Pity the poor pitchers who have to work during that series. Both teams are simply slaughtering the ball, hitting all kinds of pitching, driving all kinds of twirlers to the bench. If the Naplanders are to crack at all before the Fourth of July, they will get their start this week. If the Mackmen are to grieve over the absence of their star flingers week. Reputations must go by the board for somebody when the Naps mingle with the Mackmen at Shiba

Dooin met the writer on the street and said: "So you think we've quit, do you? Well, we don't quit as soon as some of the newspaper men do. If we did, we'd not be up there now. Watch and see whether we have lost our punch. We know just why we lost at least two of those games in New our punch. We know just why we lost at least two of those games in New York, and we are not heart-broken."

This little story is told here for the benefit of those Washington fans who have allowed their grief over the Griffmen's recent poor work to interfere with their hopes for the future. MANAGER JEEMS CALLAHAN TO PRESENT FINE YOUNGSTERS WITH THE WHITE SOX

Russell, Schalk, and Weaver. With a Great Staff of Pitchers, Due Here This Week.

By "SENATOR." Following the Jungaleers come the Chicago White Sox to the Florida avenue ball park. They land here Thursday for four games, and will show the fans one fine young twirler in "Rebel" Russell; a promising first baseman in H. Chase, a New York discovery; a smooth-working young backstop, Ray Schalk; a brilliant, strong armed shortstop in "Buck" Weaver and a well oiled machine, aided by corps of twirlers without an equal in the league on any other one team Also, lest ye forget, Jeems Jawn Callahap, orator, vaudevillian, and one-time pitcher, outfielder, runner, and hitter, not to say slider, will adorn the scenery now and then whenever complaints are necessary. By "SENATOR."

Jacinto Calvo starts his second major league game today. This is good news for the Capital City fans, who have followed the advance notices of the young Cuban with avidity and have been given but one view of him in action. Hank Shanks' injured ankle has not prospered since the Monaca Marvel began plunging around in that heavy sea in left field and so, realizing that a player in perfect condition, even though not as brilliant as Shanks, is worth more under the circumstances Manager Griffith has ordered Hank to sit on the bench and root. This gives Calvo an opportunity to get some much-needed

"Cutie" Carville Morgan, the good-looking little second baseman of the Griffmen, is expected to improve rapidly this week in his hitting. Absence from the line-up for a couple of weeks is bound to interfere with a lad's batting orbs and Morgan has suffered his share. But the Baltimo' boy was going like a wild man until that day that Frank Baker tore his wrist in Philadelphia and Manager Griffith believes it but a short time before he will hit the same pace once more.

time before he will hit the same pace once more.

The slump of the Griffmen may be seen in their poor scoring record of the week gone. In seven games they scored twenty runs on fifty-four hits. Forty-one runners were left on bases. Nevertheless, despite this crude work, they won three out of seven games and two of their defeats were by the best team in the league, the Philadelphia Athletics. The present slump of the Griffmen is bound to pass and when it does, the fans will see the team rapidly get into the running.

Have Same Standing.

Despite their poor luck, today the Griffmen stand at exactly the same Griffmen stand at exactly the same place they did last year at this time in games won and lost. In 1912, the boys fought it out all along the line and finished in second place. There is no reason to believe that they cannot repeat this performance. At this time last year their unprecedented swing score:

At this time last year their unprecedented swing through the West without defeat had put them in the race, making up for their poor work earlier in the spring. It left them right where they are today.
